The screenshot shows the Facebook interface for the 'Nedko's Warriors' group. The top navigation bar includes the Facebook logo, the group name 'Nedko's Warriors', a search bar, and user avatars for 'Ivaylo', 'Home', and 'Create'. The left sidebar contains a menu with 'About', 'Discussion', 'Announcements', 'Members', 'Events', 'Photos', 'Moderate Group', and 'Group Quality'. Below this is a 'Search this group' bar and a 'Shortcuts' section listing various groups like 'eBay & Amazon Global...', 'We Write Software', 'My Tested ASP.NET', 'Mochko.com', 'M3 Seminar Sofia - Em...', 'Microsoft Asp.Net Co...', and 'ASP.NET and MVC...'. The main content area features a large cover photo of a man in a black cap and tank top performing a pull-up on a bar. Below the photo are buttons for 'Joined', 'Notifications', 'Share', and 'More'. A 'Write Post' section includes a text input field, a 'Write something...' placeholder, and buttons for 'Add Photo/Video', 'Live Video', and 'More'. Below this is a row of buttons for 'Photo/Video', 'Watch Party', 'Tag Friends', and '...'. The 'Announcements' section shows a post from 'Недко Недков' (Nedko Nedkov), a founding member, with the text: 'Hi, guys! Welcome to my workout group! Everyone is welcome here - from beginner to elite! Feel free to ask any question you may have about my programs or about workout in general! Thank you!'. The post is marked 'Seen by everyone' and has 'Like' and 'Comment' buttons. On the right, there are sections for 'POPULAR TOPICS IN POSTS' (listing topics like 'Hefesto (0)', 'Back Lever (0)', 'One Arm Front Lev...', 'Maltese (0)', 'One Arm Pull-Up (0)', 'Basic Workout (0)', 'Front Lever (0)', and 'Planche (0)'), 'INVITE MEMBERS' (with a search bar and 'Embed Invite' button), 'MEMBERS' (showing 2 members and a 'Write Post' button), and 'SUGGESTED MEMBERS' (listing 'Friends').

General Tips & Tricks

- This program is suitable for absolute beginners but to avoid injury, you need to be in general shape.
- Lower to average body fat is recommended before trying to learn this skill!
- Prerequisites are 10 push-ups in a single set, 6 dips in a single set, 20 seconds plank, and a handstand on a wall. If you cannot do any of these requirements, I suggest you first start with my Beginner Bodyweight Workout Program, which is available here:
<http://www.nedkosw.com/>
- For best results, you should train the Planche 5 days per week but depending on your recovery, you may reduce the frequency. Train at your own pace!
- Each workout you should be feeling fresh and full of power. Do not force things as this may lead to injury. If you are tired, skip the workout, and come back tomorrow! The exercises in this program are intense so make sure you are trying training at 100% capacity!
- This program is pure Planche oriented. It is recommended to learn only one skill at a time, but if you want to combine the Planche with another exercise (for example the Front Lever), choose the 3 most difficult exercises from this program and the 3 most difficult from the other and combine them in a single training protocol.
- Before each session make sure you do a general warmup for 10 to 15 minutes. Light jogging or rope jumping is perfect. Do circles with your neck, shoulders, elbows, wrists and hips. Do some dynamic stretches to make the blood flow into your body.
- After each session spend at least 20 minutes stretching your pecs, lats, biceps and wrists! This is important and you should not skip it, if you want to be healthy in the long run!

- If you want to try the Planche outside of your training, try to not do it more than 2-3 times per day as it is intense and heavy. It may hinder your progress.
- You should get workout bands. For each exercise with a rubber band, you should adjust it to match your current strength level.

Workout Levels

- Choose a level you will be comfortable to do for one workout so that it will feel heavy, but doable. Do not skip levels or rush the process!
- Each level has targets you should reach before you move on to the next one!
- Each workout you should attempt these target sets and reps.
- Don't worry, if you cannot do all the sets or all the reps. You will build your strength over time, just do as many as you are able to do. You will improve after one-two weeks!
- Be consistent and results will follow!
- After you reach the last level, you may want to move to more advanced Planche variations, like the Maltese for example. I have programs for those, so make sure you check them out here:
<http://www.nedkosw.com/>
- IMPORTANT: after you reach your targets and they become easy, do them for 2 more weeks to strengthen your connective tissue. After that you should move to the more advanced exercises. Do not rush the process, because it may lead to an injury!
